

Welcome to Wayzata's Sound Library 2000!

Congratulations on purchasing a valuable resource of over 2000 sounds. Including 10 different categories ranging from Musical Introductions to Sounds of Nature.

SOUNDS GOOD:

Please find on this disk:

- * this ReadMe file.
- * a "Waves" directory with ten sub-directory of over 2000 sounds in WAV format
You can copy these sounds into your Windows directory for use in your system.
- * Sound Lib 2000 HyperCard stack
(allows you to browse, play, copy, copy to clipboard, search, or play all the sounds.)
- * a "System7" folder with ten sub-folders of over 2000 sounds.
These are clickable to play and you can drag them into your system folder to use as system sounds.
- * an "AIFF" folder with ten sub-folders of over 2000 sounds in AIFF format.
- * a sample hypercard stack with playing XCMD.

A SOUND A DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY:

I now have over 2000 sounds, what can I do with them?

- * Use them as a resource in creating presentations, multi-media shows etc.
- * Use them as system sounds (Beeps).
- * Combine them with Toolbook "books" or other Applications.
- * Use them Macromind Director "Movies".
- * Use sound editing programs like those from Sound Blaster or Toolbook to alter/distort/enhance the Sounds. (We do not recommend any particular program, there are ShareWare programs available.)

THE SOUND THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK:

Sounds take up room! We recommend only installing sounds from the "SHORT MISCELLANEOUS" category into your system. They are generally smaller and should not overload your system. However, do not load too many -- your system performance will degrade. How many sounds is too many? -- depends on your system and memory and what applications, etc. you use.

MARCH TO THE BEAT OF A DIFFERENT SOUND:

We hope that this CD will provide you with a valuable resource with a variety of usable sounds. With this CD and its cacophony of sounds you should enable your Macintosh to march to its own distinct beat.
