Special Notice for Users of the Forte for Java IDE

As an addin to the integrated development environment, InLine Standard takes advantage of the IDE's project tracking mechanism. Different from Visual Café and JBuilder, Forte for Java uses system directories, rather than proprietary file types, as the basis for its projects.

To accommodate project directories used in Forte for Java, three new menu selections appear in the InLine menu.

- New EJB Project – Use this menu selection to launch a file chooser dialog and create a new project directory.

- Open EJB Project - Use this menu selection to launch a file chooser dialog and select an existing project directory.

- Close EJB Project – Use this menu selection to close the selected project directory without exiting Forte for Java.

The IDE's File-Save All menu should be used to save work within a project.