With the CS1075-N, you can choose to use a private handset or the conference speakerphone, and easily switch calls from one to the other during a conversation.

Professional full duplex speakerphone

Using a typical office speakerphone for teleconferencing can mean costly missed words and frustrating conversations. Now, with the CS1075 N full duplex speakerphone, you can use conference calls for productive communication between co-workers, customers, or associates, and save the time and expense of traveling to a meeting. No more missed words, clipped sentences, or one-way conversations. The CS1075 N is designed for groups of up to 10 people. Optional extension microphones extend room coverage on either side of the base for larger groups or longer tables.

360° coverage

Three powerful built in microphones provide 360° coverage during conference calls. With automatic gain control, everyone in the room will be heard whether they're sitting, standing, or moving around the room.

Plugs into your PC's sound card

The CS1075-N handles more than just regular conference calls. It can turn your PC into a productive audio communication tool.
