Overview

Using This Manual

This is more than just a typical software instruction manual. It is an "on-line" User's Manual, providing easy, electronic access to any information you might need about Directory Jump Plus™.

You can scan through the manual "normally" (sequentially), the same way you might read any other document. But what makes this manual special is the ability to instantly and automatically jump to anywhere else in the document. Bold green text means jump. You can jump around this manual the same way you jump around screens in the Windows "Help" system.

Double-click a green "jump text" chapter title in the Table of Contents to jump directly to that chapter. At the end of each chapter you can also return to the Table of Contents by double-clicking the jump text Double-Click Here To Return To Table Of Contents. Double-click the green cross-references throughout the document to jump to a more complete explanation of that topic. To enhance the speed of jumping, we recommend that you copy this manual to your hard drive.

What is Directory Jump Plus™ ?

Do you keep your document files in more than one directory? The more directories you have, the more bothersome opening files can become. To open or save a document you'll have to click and click through sub-directory after sub-directory to get to the directory you want.

You'll also need a good memory. Directory names are limited to eight characters. And WinWord doesn't automatically display more than one level of sub-directories in its File Open dialog. That makes a sub-directory accessible only if you remember exactly where it is, and what it's named.

Wouldn't it be GREAT to be able to give your directories long, descriptive names? And be able to quickly access them with just one click?

Directory Jump Plus™ provides you with intuitive, single click access to all your document directories. Give your directories real descriptive names. Then open or save a file anywhere on your PC (or LAN) with just one command. With Directory Jump Plus™ you can even create new directories — from right inside WinWord. Save yourself a lot of time and bother. Use Directory Jump Plus™ instead!

Installation

Installation will do the following:

- Copy the included support files (DLL's), to the WINDOWS\SYSTEM sub-directory
- Copy all the macro program libraries to the global context (NORMAL.DOT)
- Assign the Directory Jump Plus™ command to the "File" menu.

The Directory Jump Plus™ installation program, along with complete installation instructions, can be found in the included Word for Windows document SETUP-DJ.DOC.

Quick Start

Here's how you can get up and running fast! Follow the instructions below to quickly learn how to add descriptions of your most-used directories to the Jump List. No need to remember any more cryptic eight character directory names, or labyrinthine directory tree structures. Just add your descriptions once, then you'll always be able to open or save files with one simple mouse click.

After program installation, run Directory Jump Plus™

Mouse

Click the Directory Jump Plus entry on the "File" menu.

Keyboard

Press Alt+F, D

Adding Directories To The Jump List

To add directories to the Directory Jump Plus™ Jump List...

Mouse

Click the Add Directory To Jump List button

Keyboard

Press Alt+A

OR tab to the Add Directory To Jump List button and press Enter

The "Select Directory" screen that follows contains drive and directory list boxes. Notice that the directory of the active document (the document which is active on your Word for Windows application workspace) is displayed by default.

Choose a directory to add and then...

Mouse

Click the Choose button

Keyboard

Press Enter

OR press Alt+C

Next, enter a description for the selected directory in the screen that follows. Make sure that the description is no longer than the length of the edit field. When you are satisfied with the directory description you've entered...

Mouse

Click the OK button

Keyboard

Press Enter

You've just added your first directory description to the Directory Jump Plus™ Jump List!

Once you've added one or more directories to the Jump List, you're ready to get the most out of Directory Jump Plus™. You can open documents from a directory or save documents to a directory simply by highlighting a description on the Jump List and clicking the appropriate button. You can even create directories, from right inside Word for Windows!

Opening Files

Highlight the desired directory description on the Jump List. Then...

Mouse

Click the Open File button

Keyboard

Press Alt+O

OR press Enter

Directory Jump Plus™ will jump you to the directory you want, then display the Word for Windows File Open screen.

Tip

Because the Open File command is the most commonly used Directory Jump Plus™ feature, we've also made it the easiest to use — you can also double click a directory description to jump to a directory and open files.

Saving Files

To save a file into a directory on the Jump List, highlight the desired directory, then...

Mouse

Click the Save File button

Keyboard

Press Alt+S

OR tab to the Save File button and press Enter

Directory Jump Plus™ will jump you to the directory you've chosen, then display the Word for Windows File Save As screen.

Running Directory Jump Plus™

Basic Program Operation

After program installation, it's always easy to run Directory Jump Plus™ — here's how:

Mouse

Click the Directory Jump Plus entry on the “File” menu

Keyboard

Press Alt+F, D

The Directory Jump Plus™ main window will be displayed. Next, you'll need to select a directory description from the Jump List. There are two ways to do this:

Mouse

Use the scroll bars to move up and down the Jump List, then click directly on the desired directory description.

Keyboard

Press the alphanumeric key corresponding to the first character of the desired directory description. The highlighting will jump to the first directory description starting with that letter.

After a description is selected you can then open files from that directory, save files to that directory, edit the directory description or path, or remove the directory description from the Jump List.

Opening Files

Highlight the description of the directory that you want to open. Then...

Mouse

Click the Open File button

Keyboard

Press Alt+O

OR press Enter

Directory Jump Plus™ will jump you to the directory you want, then display the Word for Windows File Open screen.

Tip

Because the Open File command is the most commonly used Directory Jump Plus™ feature, we've also made it the easiest to use — you can also double click a directory description to jump to a directory and open files.

Please Note: Directory Jump Plus™ does not change the Current System Directory (see §) to be that of the jumped-to directory unless you actually open a file from that directory or save a file to that directory. (Compare this with the Word for Windows File Open and File Save As screens — they always leave you stuck in the sub-directory you've clicked into.)

Saving Files

To save a file into a Directory Jump Plus™ directory, first highlight the description of the directory into which you want to save your file. Then...

Mouse

Click the Save File button

Keyboard

Press Alt+S

OR tab to the Save File button and press Enter

Directory Jump Plus™ will jump you to the directory you've specified, then display the Word for Windows File Save As screen. Enter a filename for your document. If the file was previously saved, the current filename will appear in the File Name combo box by default.

Please Note: Directory Jump Plus™ does not change the Current System Directory (see

§) to be that of the jumped-to directory unless you actually open a file from that directory or save a file to that directory. (Compare this with the Word for Windows File Open and File Save As screens — they always leave you stuck in the sub-directory you've clicked into.)

Creating A New Directory

Have you ever been ready to save a new file and then realized that there was no appropriate directory to put it in? To create a new directory for your file you'll need to task switch to the Program Manager to run the File Manager, make your new directory, then switch back to Word for Windows. This is a lot of bother. And what happens if Windows crashes while you're doing all this? You could lose the document you were trying to save.

There's a better way. Use the Directory Jump Plus™ Create New Directory Now... button and you'll never need to leave Word for Windows to create a new directory again. It's faster, safer, and easier.

1. Run Directory Jump Plus™ and click the Create New Directory Now... button or press Alt+C.
2. In the screen that follows, the directory of the active document (the document which is active on your Word for Windows application workspace) is displayed by default. If there is no active document, or if the active document has not yet been saved, then the current system directory will be displayed.

Point and click to change directories, if necessary. Make sure that the directory under which you want to create the new directory is displayed. Then...

Mouse

Click the Choose button

Keyboard

Press Alt+C

OR press Enter

3. In the next screen, enter the name for the new directory you want to create (remember to follow DOS naming conventions). Then click the OK button or press Enter.

That's it! You've created a new directory for your documents — without ever leaving Word for Windows.

Tip: Create New Directory Now... will change the current system directory (see §) to the new directory you've just made. This makes saving your new files even easier.

Current System Directory

The Current System Directory is the default directory which is displayed by Word for Windows. You see it whenever you perform the File Open or File Save operations. Clicking through the "Directories" list box in these WinWord dialogs to change directories will also change the Current System Directory, whether or not you actually perform a File Open or File Save. This means that the next time you do a File Open or File Save, that's where you'll still be. If you keep your files in more than one directory... you've got a life full of clicking ahead of you.

Directory Jump Plus™ only changes the Current System Directory if this will make your work easier. That is to say, Directory Jump Plus™ changes the Current System Directory to be the directory you've "jumped" to only if you actually...

- open a file from a directory description on the Directory Jump Plus™ Jump List
- save a file to a directory on the Directory Jump Plus™ Jump List
- create a new directory using the Create New Directory Now... button (the Current System Directory is changed to be the new directory you've just created)

Our assumption is that if you open a file, save a file, or create a new directory using Directory Jump Plus™, you might want to perform further operations in the same directory. But If you jump to a directory using either the “Open File” or “Save File” features, and then choose not to open or save any files, the previous Current System Directory will be maintained.

The Directory Jump Plus™ “Select Directory” Drive-Directory windows will use Current System Directory information as a default directory in certain situations. In general, the directory of the active document will be highlighted as the default directory displayed. However, if (1) the active document has not yet been named and saved; or (2) the active document is in Outline View; or (3) there is no file open; or (4) the active document is a macro — the Current System Directory is highlighted instead.
