

y John Haley

Ambrosia has accomplished its goal of earning a forum on all of the major commercial online networks here in the U.S. CompuServe is currently working with Ambrosia's "Cajun" David Richard on establishing our own forum on CompuServe. Before this, CIS users had to hunt around through various files or enter ZiffNet in order to find Ambrosia's products.

Now, once again, we have established an online base of operations on CompuServe. A centralized location for our Technical support section, download library and press releases. I have said it before, and I will say it again. This kind of forum really makes it easier for folks to get in touch with us, and for us to better serve our customers.

CompuServe is helping us celebrate this new opportunity. CompuServe has asked Ambrosia to extend a free introductory membership offer to CompuServe that includes the following:

- Free access to all of CompuServe's basic services for one month.
- a $15 introductory usage credit to explore Ambrosia's new section, as well as other extended & premium services.
- A private User Identification Number & Password.
- A complimentary subscription to CompuServe Magazine, CompuServe's monthly computing publication.

You can receive your free Introductory Membership by calling one of the numbers given below. When you call, be sure to ask for representative #193.

ey, not only is the Introductory Membership free, but CompuServe is even willing to pay for the phone call. Just click your mouse on your country's flag, and you will be provided with the appropriate contact phone numbers. If your country is not included below, dial (+1) 614.529.1349 for CompuServe.