

STORY

In the rough streets of Los Angeles, customised rides and 187 gangland shootings are the norm. But when the street O.G Dupree is seriously shot 9 times by his Mexican Mafia nemesis Cortez, Dupree's prime real estate is up for grabs. Cortez and his crew of thugs are poised to take over Dupree's hood. Dupree calls upon the only guy who can shift gears in street rides, the only guy who can blaze guns combat style. The guy's name is Buck. Buck is given the task to defend Dupree's hood against Cortez and his crew, at all cost. If he fails, not only will Dupree's hood be lost, but Buck will lose his own life...

CHARACTERS

> Buck

Afro-American, his eyes are youthful, innocent, but underneath a hint of danger still lurks. Buck is a bright kid who is not only look smart but also street smart. He's a loyal guy, a tough guy. He loves money, guns, women and customised fast cars. The O.G gangsta Dupree took Buck off the street and gave him a home when he had no place to go. Buck has been given tough tasks by his street father – race through the streets of LA, deliver packages, settle old scores and avoid street hits on his life. But he's learnt something more important still; never lose or get killed.

> Dupree

Afro-American, Dupree is almost the textbook definition of an O.G; big, menacing, smart, his dark piercing eyes would make a Leopard take fright. He has seen many things on the street, both good and bad. Dupree is a cross between Vito Corleone and Suge Knight. He also appreciates the finer things in life, like Asian art, furniture and women. A reminder of his many street wars, he walks with a limp from multiple gun shot wounds. Dupree is a driven man when he has his mind set on something. He's loyal to his street soldiers, but if you cross him, prepare to die.

> Cortez

Mexican American, Cortez is a Barrio Mexican mafia member, tough as nails. He is relentless when he wants something, and won't rest until he has reached his goal. Cortez loves cigars, sexy women, fast cars and money. Raised in the mean streets of East L.A., he has seen many of his homies fall to the street. Cortez has outlasted many because of his street skills.
