The Omnibus Kermit Bulk-Right-to-Copy license entitles the LICENSEE to furnish the licensed number of copies (LICENSE SEATS) of Kermit software (Kermit 95, C-Kermit, or MS-DOS Kermit, as appropriate to each computer) to its employees, contractors, customers, or clients. End-user technical support must be furnished by the LICENSEE. Technical support to the LICENSEE is furnished through a single technical point of contact, indicated below, with the Kermit project at Columbia University.

The LICENSEE is entitled to technical support, software patches, and version upgrades at no additional cost for one year. After that, the maintenance fee is twenty-five percent (25%) of the total license fees paid as of the most recent anniversary of the first license, payable on the first anniversary of the original license and each anniversary thereafter, as long as the LICENSEE wishes to be eligible for technical support, patches, and new releases.

The LICENSEE must assume responsibility for preventing all manner of external access to the software, including, but not limited to, unauthorized duplication and redistribution of the software in any form, placing of the software on file servers, ftp servers, or Web pages that are accessible to anyone who is not entitled to a copy of this software under this license.

The Kermit software is provided as is, without representation from the Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York (COLUMBIA) as to its fitness for any purpose, and without warranty by COLUMBIA of any kind, either express or implied, including without limitation the implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose. COLUMBIA shall not be liable for any damages, including special, indirect, incidental, or consequential damages, with respect to any claim arising out of or in connection with the use of the software, even if it has been or is hereafter advised of the possibility of such damages. The LICENSEE shall indemnify and hold harmless COLUMBIA, its employees and agents from and against any and all claims, demands, loss, damage or expense (including attorneys' fees) arising out of its use of this software.
