

#54 To prefix or not to prefix

by Dave Terry

Published Date: February 3, 1988

Updating copies of a database after adding a file

When using REJECT(fieldname) or GO TO FIELD(fieldname) do not use the filename prefix (eg. [File]). This is true for subfields also. When using Redraw(subfilename) do not use the filename prefix after the parent level. If you customize your database and set Desk Accessories to work "During thermometer" then the GO TO FIELD command must be the last command in the during phase of your layout procedure (it still must not have a filename prefix).

