The incorporation of the font as a graphic in the .WRI file is appreciated. It makes it possible to look at the font without having to load it into either Windows or FontManager.

Also, one cannot have enough sound effects (I'm thinking of short .WAV files useful as error or progress sounds). How about some more?

We're glad to hear you find the fonts feature useful. Always check the Nemo Notes section for our continuous offering of fonts. If you are a shareware author who would like to publish your fonts, just let us know.

Meanwhile, for those of you who use system sounds, take a look at the first chapter of a soon-to-be-released multimedia publication about multimedia, aptly titled "Multimedia Madness" and presented in the Multimedia section of this disc, of course! Author Ron Wodaski addresses system sounds among other things, and his sounds are available for your use. Watch for more sounds collected by Tweak on future NAUTILUS discs.
