

Advertisement .AVIs

I thought that the advertisements for Zenith and HP [Feature, July issue] were interesting additions to the Nautilus disc. It would be neat to see other .AVIs like that. I know that Microsoft is always publishing videos on the advantages of Windows. Keep up the great work!

The NEWTON.AVI in the feature on the June issue was well done. Even though it was an ad, these are the kinds of AVIs I wouldn't mind seeing more of. Also in the feature, the SMARTHOUSE sounds neat! Could you include some sort of graphic demo or display of this? Or maybe how to get in touch with the company doing this? And muchas gracias for the Picasso piece. The video was neat, but including the specs for it was great! Answered all the questions I had while watching the AVI clips, including the (egad!) price. Oh well, better start saving for one now....

Planet of the Month is great! Please keep it up!

Two thumbs up to "Horses" by Celestial Navigations. The Windham Hill cuts were good, too. Keep 'em coming.

The photo preview is a good idea. It's nice to get an overview of what's in the section.

From the Nautilus Team:

We try to provide information to you on existing and upcoming products. Fortunately, we could get video for some of the items in our last two Features. Our intent was to provide informational demos, not advertising.

Meanwhile, The Planet of the Month column will continue until we cycle through the planets. If you have a suggestion for a similar educational column, please let us know.

And the SMARTHOUSE was developed by American Electric Power. You can get more information by writing to Columbus Southern Power Company, 215 North Front Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215-2291.
