

JUST WHAT DO WE MEAN BY "FREE USE"?

In compiling the contents of Nautilus discs, we seek to present a wide variety of software subscribers can enjoy and use.

For the material labelled "free use," we work hard to protect the rights of our content contributors in the following ways:

- Contributors retain all copyrights for their work.

- Nautilus subscribers and purchasers of Nautilus compilation discs are granted a non-exclusive, non-assignable, and non-transferable license to use these materials free of any usage fees or licensing charges for personal, business or production use with the restrictions described below:
 - Non-exclusive means that all subscribers/purchasers may use them.

 - Non-assignable and non-transferable mean you may not grant usage rights to anyone else by passing the materials along to friends, co-workers, etc., uploading them to bulletin boards, distributing them on floppies, etc.

 - The materials may not be used for any commercial or resale purposes without express permission from the author/artist.

If you have questions about this "free use" policy, if you need authorization to use Nautilus material in some commercial fashion, or if you need additional information to contact a contributor for similar permission, please contact us directly:
