The Shareware Concept

Shareware distribution gives users a chance to try software before buying it. If you try a Shareware program and continue using it, you are expected to register. Individual programs differ on details -- with registration, you get anything from the simple right to continue using the software to an updated program with printed manual.

Copyright laws apply to Shareware, and the copyright holder retains all rights, with a few specific exceptions as stated below. Just like other authors, Shareware authors are accomplished programmers, and the programs are of comparable quality. (In both cases, there are good programs and bad ones!) The main difference is in the method of distribution. The author specifically grants the right to copy and distribute the software, either to all or to a specific group.

Shareware is a distribution method, not a type of software. You should find software that suits your needs and pocketbook, whether it's on a store shelf or Shareware. The Shareware system makes fitting your needs easier, because you can try before you buy. And because the overhead is low, prices are low also. Shareware has the ultimate money-back guarantee -- if you don't use the product, you don't pay for it.

This program has been produced by a member of the Association of Shareware Authors and Distributors (ASAD). Any problems of a shareware nature that can not be resolved either by the source of the program or the the author of the program (whichever is applicable) may be brought to the attention of the ASAD Ombudsman for possible correction. Please send all information, including the name and address of the person or company you received the program from, to: ASAD, Attn: Ombudsman, 1323 Garfield Avenue Springfield, Ohio 45504. Telephone (voice) 513-399-4828 or (fax) 513-399-2501. Additional information about ASAD may be obtained by writing the above address (Attn: Membership Director) and requesting a membership application package.

Disclaimer & License Agreement

The software described in this document is provided under terms of a License Agreement. Please read it carefully. The software may be used or copied only in accordance with the terms of this Agreement. Unauthorized use, duplication, distribution, or disassembly is strictly prohibited by federal law. Please note that the use and distribution of this software as "shareware" as defined under the documentation is both allowed and encouraged! Those who charge for distribution of this software must read and comply with the requirements as stated in VENDOR.TXT and in this manual.

"THIS PRODUCT IS SUPPLIED AS IS. THE AUTHOR DISCLAIMS ALL WARRANTIES, EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, THE WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND OF FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE. THE AUTHOR ASSUMES NO LIABILITY FOR DAMAGES, DIRECT OR CONSEQUENTIAL, WHICH MAY RESULT FROM THE USE OF THIS PRODUCT. This product is provided at no charge to the user for evaluation. Share it with your friends, but please do not give it away altered or as part of another system. Please remind them to register if they find that they can use it. The essence of "user-supported" software is to provide personal computer users with quality software without high prices, and yet to provide incentive for programmers to continue to develop new products.

If you continue to use this product after a reasonable trial period, you must register it with NetWorld Publishing. The registration fee will license one copy for use on any one computer at any one time.

Treat this software just like a book. An example is that this software may be used by any number of people and may be freely moved from one computer location to another, so long as there is no possibility of it being used at one location while it's being used at another, just as a book cannot be read by two different persons at the same time. Site-License or quantity arrangements at substantial discounts are available.
