After you have selected a particular table format, you can still modify the table further. Assume e.g., that you want to display a table where the "Unit" column is replaced by a "Kind" column.   That is, instead of showing the "Unit" property of each node, you want to show the "Kind" property. To do this, you simply click the table heading of the "Unit" column. When you do this, a menu containing all possible node properties occurs. From this menu, you select the "Kind" item.

Using this method, you can rearrange the table completely to suit your particular needs.
