this is unusual with all traffic lately what with the earthquake here in la last night. had 13 of my best antique tubes busted when their box shook off my table. Each one cost me at least 25 dollars. theyll be hard to replace. k ya7cft de tlopz sorry to hear about that. send me a list of ur busted tubes es i will keep a lookout for replacements. hw did the xyl take the quake? k tlopz de ya7cft she took it quite well. shes a nurse es spent at least 5 hrs yesterday doing volunteer work with the red cross. hope these quakes stop. this makes the 2nd week shes missed ham classes because of the quakes. shes going for her novice. k ya7cft de p5ttn heard u talking about the quake. Live in fresno. shook up here too but not as bad as that 6.1 on the richter scale u had. all the hams immediatly fired up to include the group over at the red cross. I believe 5 hams arrived at the red cross rig only 10 minutes after the quake. k p5ttn de ya7cft they said the quake killed 1 person and injured over 200. 2 or 3 friends of mine said that had to straighten up their vertical antennas. 5 friends had transceivers that were busted. Lucky some of us have generators as the power went out for 5 minutes in my neighborhood. Gee, things can get tough. they say the big one can happen tomorrow or in the next 50 years. k ya7cft de p5ttn yes, glad i have my radio to help out. long distance phone lines were tied up so helped in lots of 3rd party phone patches to check out if relatives were ok. I believe i must have put through about 52 calls over the last 2 days. k p5ttn de ya7cft say i think im starting to feel another 1 starting here. I think id better shut
