F-117A Stealth Fighter. MicroProse Software, a division of Spectrum HoloByte, announces the release of F-117A STEALTH FIGHTER for the Macintosh. Based on the award-winning and popular F-19 STEALTH FIGHTER, F-117A is ready to thrill gamers just like its earlier IBM-PC version.

Gamers can fly in any of nine worlds including Columbia/Panama, Northern Japan and Iraq and have the ability to load future worlds. Even the most skilled computer pilot can be challenged by the state-of-the-art mission generation system that contains improved enemy artificial intelligence.

Experiencing the world's most elusive jet during night sequences, players are visually delighted with the special HUD features, sprite explosions and smoke, and cluster bomb explosions.

F-117A STEALTH FIGHTER requires a color Macintosh, 4 MB RAM and system 6.0.7 or higher. The suggested retail price is $69. For consumer orders only, call 1-800-879-PLAY.

PowerPOKER. After seven years in development, Electronic Arts announces the release of PowerPOKER for the Apple Macintosh and PowerBook. The brainchild of long-time Macintosh programmer, Todd L. Ouzts, PowerPOKER was born in 1986 on a 128K Macintosh. As Ouzts' expertise grew, so did the program, and today features 256-color graphics, QuickTime movies, and support for Apple's new PlainTalk text-to-speech utility. His intention was to develop the first comprehensive playing and tutorial program for the world's most popular card game, and PowerPOKER resulted.

Seventy-seven poker variations are included, plus the ability for the player to design his own. Sophisticated artificial intelligence gradually hones and develops play levels up to those of a professional player. For serious players, PowerPOKER provides a comprehensive array of tutorial tools including hand analysis, historical hand strengths and historical performance charts.

At any time, a number of options may be called up that will provide in-depth statistics on the game at a hand by hand level. Hand Strengths and Standings can be analyzed, and even reset if the player so desires. For the ultimate high-tech poker party, PowerPOKER even allows up to 10 human players to compete simultaneously via LocalTalk, Ethernet, or AppleTalk Remote Access over modems. SRP: $49.95
