One of two methods of saving a movie.

This saves a record of any changes made in the movie, but does not store any new segments pasted in.

The movie plays correctly according to the changes, but if any parts were copied from other movies, this movie will be playable only when the original movies are on a disk connected to the computer.