

Basford Cemetery

Welcome

This disk contains the transcriptions and photographs of all accessible/readable inscriptions in Basford Cemetery, Nottingham. All were recorded during the summer months of 2005.

How to navigate around this document

Look through the Surname Index for the name of your choice, record the number of the Stone, then go to the Main Index and either read the transcription there, or click on the appropriate link to the image from the list on the left hand side.

You can also search through the Main Index itself, just by using the Find command under the Edit menu of Acrobat.

Notes about the photographs

Although most of the photographs will show the majority of each grave, they are foremost just intended to show the inscriptions on each grave. To record all the transcription, quite a few graves have more than one photograph. The last 30 or so photographs are scans of the actual documents, submitted by the various undertakers to the head of the cemetery for permission to erect or add additions to monuments. Some of these documents match stones which still stand (these have been cross-referenced), the others which don't, are an invaluable source of information for stones which are now missing.
