Introduction

Remind-It is a program which plants itself in your system tray and reminds you to do things which you configure into the program at a set interval.   Take me for instance, I like to take breaks from staring at the monitor for long periods of time, but I always forget because I'm too wrapped up in whatever I was doing!   But with Remind-It installed, I configure it to pop-up every hour or so and tell me to take a break while it plays a song and shows me an image.

When the break is over, it hides itself again until the next break arrives. You can also use this to just remind yourself that you have to go somewhere while you are using the computer etc.   In short, this can be a lifesaver, and an eye-saver of a program.

Please see FEATURES for more information on the functions of Remind-It.

Registered Version

One registered copy of Remind-It may either be used by a single person who uses the software personally on one or more computers, or installed on a single workstation used nonsimultaneously by multiple people, but not both.

You may access the registered version of Remind-It through a network, provided that you have obtained individual licenses for the software covering all workstations that will access the software through the network. For instance, if 8 different workstations will access Remind-It on the network, each workstation must have its own Remind-It license, regardless of whether they use Remind-It at different times or concurrently.

(E-mail jarr@netcom.ca if you have a large network and do not wish to pay for each license individually)

Except to the extent expressly licensed herein, all rights are reserved to Jason Ross. You may not reverse engineer, decompile, or disassemble Remind-It in any way.

Limited Warranty and Limitation of remedies:

NO WARRANTIES. To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, Jason Ross expressly disclaims any warranty for Remind-It.Remind-It and any related documentation is provided "as is" without warranty of any kind, either express or implied, including, without limitation, the implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose. The entire risk arising out of use or performance of Remind-It remains with you. Jason Ross' entire liability and your exclusive remedy, at Jason Ross' option, shall be the cost of Remind-It or its replacement with another copy of Remind-It

To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, in no event shall Jason Ross be liable for any damages whatsoever (including, without limitation, damages for loss of business profit, business interruption, loss of business information, or any other pecuniary loss) arising out of the use or inability to use this product, even if Jason Ross has been advised of the possibility of such damages.

Because some states/jurisdictions do not allow the exclusion or limitation of liability for consequential or incidental damages, the above limitation may not apply to you.
