This command initiates a standard ColorPicker dialog that allows the user to specify the water color. This is the basic water color that is operated on by the wave model.