The complete trilogy set costs $32 + $4 S&H and contains the following :-

Hugo's Horrific Adventure game (this game)

Hugo's Mystery Adventure game

Hugo's Amazon Adventure game

Hint book explaining all the puzzles

Hugo's Mystery Adventure

Hugo and Penelope fly off to England to enjoy a quiet recuperation at the country cottage of Hugo's Great Uncle Horace after their harrowing experience in "Hugo's Horrific Adventure". But far from getting their wish, they are plunged instead into a fiendish whodunit murder mystery in which Hugo mysteriously disappears and Penelope has to take courage in both hands to solve the murderer's identity while searching for poor Hugo.

This game is much longer and more complex than the first shareware game and includes numerous puzzles and red herrings en route to the startling conclusion in front of all the suspects when the final accusation is made. Will Penelope fight off the amorous gardener, avoid the poisonous snake, get the better of the saucy french maid and finally make her rendezvous with Officer Higgins to explain all? You bet, and much more besides.

These two screenshots are from Hugo's Mystery Adventure in which Hugo and Penelope get swept up in a murder whodunit in the quiet charm of the English countryside when they visit the cottage of Hugo's Great Uncle Horace (left).

Here we see Penelope thoughtfully staring at two iron gates with no sign of a lock or any way to open them. The good news is that she has worked out that they are electric gates and the way to open them lies inside the gardener's shed. The bad news is that the gardener appears to have designs on poor Penelope who must deal with him first. Harder and much more extensive than game one, it abounds with red-herrings and tricky puzzles as you work your way around (and under) the grounds of the cottage to the final startling revelation of the murderer's identity.

Hugo's Amazon Adventure

Flying back from their vacation, Hugo and Penelope crash land their light aircraft in the depths of the Amazon Jungle. Penelope goes off to explore while Hugo surveys the damage. That's when the trouble starts as Penelope gets bitten by a dreaded tree spider and Hugo must search for the life-giving water of the secret Pool of Life - Penelope's only hope. Fortunately a friendly native girl is on hand to give directions.

This game is larger than the first shareware episode, with beautifully drawn Jungle scenery throughout, lots of ingenious puzzles and the usual healthy dose of humor. Hugo will encounter many obstacles in his quest, not least the collapse of the bridge marking the only way back to Penelope. Then of course there's the seemingly impassable piranha-infested river, the mysterious cave spirit, the evil Witch Doctor and much more.

These two screenshots are from Hugo's Amazon Adventure. After making a crash landing in the Amazon jungle, Penelope gets bitten by a dreaded tree spider and Hugo has to seek the antidote. Left, we see poor Hugo taking his life in his hands to get across a rickety old rope bridge which is about to collapse at any moment. How can he stop the bridge from falling to pieces?

Here we see Hugo entering a village camp where he will try to barter with some friendly natives who have resigned themselves to eating roast hyena for supper yet again. So long as Hugo has something they need they will prove most helpful. The large hut in the middle belongs to the local Witch Doctor who turns out to be anything but friendly...

The hint book

The 30-page hint booklet covers each puzzle in the three games in two ways. The first section gives hints to nudge you in the right direction to solve the puzzles yourself. The second section spells out the complete solution to each puzzle, giving details of how it is solved and why. Maps and floorplans are included where appropriate.

Order Form

Use this if you wish to pay by check (must be in U.S. funds drawn on a U.S. bank), International Postal Order or Money Order or equivalent. If you send U.S. bills, make sure they are in an opaque envelope or well wrapped! Sorry, we cannot accept Canadian checks or Eurocheques.

Credit Card

Use our credit card service to pay using Visa, Mastercard, Access, Discover, American Express or any credit card bearing these marks. This is also an excellent way to pay internationally since the amount is automatically converted to your local currency.

CompuServe

CompuServe is an international information service provider (effectively a huge global BBS) which many people subscribe to. It is much better organized than the Internet currently is and special interest forums are moderated by sysops. Among their services to shareware authors they include the facility for customers to register or order products from the authors and add the charge to their CompuServe bill for that month. We receive notification of the order the same day via email. This is an excellent, and perhaps the easiest, way to pay Internationally. Gray Design Associates' CompuServe ID is 73607,2105

World Wide Web

The World Wide Web is an interlinked network of Internet sites which can be navigated using a suitable "Web Browser" by clicking on hyperlinks, much like you are doing now in this Windows Help file. Each link represents a page of text and graphics in a hierarchy, the topmost page of any particular author or organization is known as their "Home page". Gray Design Associates' Home Page is at <http://delta.com/gda.com/gda.htm>
