STRANGE LOVE

This is my third formula on the evocation of the id for the generation of the Missing Magical Link. I actually realized this theory second to my original Missing Magical Link article. So this theory was to have a great impact on my ideas on sigilisation. Whereas that formula covered my ideas on the technique of ceremonial evocation, the one I now present is somewhat more Tantrik. Correlating to the element of fire, a pattern forms around the four elements of alchemy. The first formula goes to URth, the second Air, and as mentioned this one to Fire. This leaves a formula yet to be realized. But such has little relevance to the matter at hand.

I found myself troubled with the invisible quantum wave that seems to connect everything non-locally. I was confounded by this nebulous link [whereas my first theory of evocation told me how to achieve it, I was still uncertain as to what it was] that made magick possible. That was until I read the following chapter in Paul Devereux's Earth Memory:

"Critchlow notes the symbolism of the overlapping solar and lunar symbols in Tibetan Buddhism, as described by Lama Angarika Govinda. According to this system the solar circle represents universal or archtypical consciousness, the inner world of the mind, and the lunar symbolizes the empirical consciousness, the outer world of appearances. Where the circles overlap, the vesica, is the manas. Critchlow found that manas 'has been etymologically linked via archaic Indo European language with the word man -the conscious animal."

He latter goes on to suggest that emotions belong to the inner solar world. His interpretation of the sun as the inner world of Objective reality and the moon as the alien landscape we find the URth, was in complete compliance with the philosophy of N.E.M.O. Even so, emotions as an inner experience to me was all wrong. It was at this point where I had my epiphany, that the emotions correlated to the physical world of the URth. URth was the element that I had already correlated to magick, and I had already understood that emotions [the id] are what made such an irrational science possible. What now occurred to me was that these emotions that I believed were actually biological instincts were the nebulous link to universe B. The thought then occurred to me that these emotions could alter the structure of the URth. This made me recall what I had just read a little time earlier on Wilhelm Reich's weather experiments.

"Reich conceived of the weather as a function of the pulsation of the underlying orgone energy envelope of the planet. Like an organism, this atmosphere is sensitive to insults, and when pollution in the form of smog, pesticide, and ionizing radiation reach critical levels, the atmosphere acts accordingly..."

The URth is not conscious, that would be Airy and masculine. Rather she is an irrational unconscious [the ego has been annihilated] woman. The emotional state of the URth is relative to the weather, foul weather equals foul mood. Coincidentally enough, times of bad weather have always been attributed to magical activity [as during thunderstorms, the atmosphere seems charged for magical activity]. This is when she is in the worst mood, and at such times where she is the most angriest it becomes easy to see why she'd be so magical. According to the Aza Factor [The probability of a magical event is determined by the level of chaos in a given situation] such times of instability is when it is easiest to push her in the direction you desire.

The weather of the URth effects are emotions, and we in turn effect hers. Now the effect she has on us is purely unconscious, thus it is completely nebulous. Something modern man has forgotten is that he is part of Nature [he forgot this because he no longer lives in the wild, and so his instincts have degenerated, this is the desensitized man, devoid of emotion he lives in his own world of urban landrape.] and just as easy as she effects are emotions [though we suppress them- like the id, at every opportunity] we can also effect hers when we too reach such critical levels of instability. One might call this Deadly Orgone Radiation, or perhaps its due to the Electro magnetic field of the URth. Where as regular orgone corresponds to the Libido, the life-force of attraction, DOR would be repressed and thus perverted desire.

As I already stated the URth is a feminine force not a masculine one, and therefore she is unconscious and highly emotional. This then creates a further correlation with the moon for this is the condition of the woman having her period. It is a common tenet of Astroneurophysiology that a woman under such an influence is highly magical. On the other hand deserts correspond to the intellectual unemotional masculine element of Air, and there weather rarely becomes severe.

Anton LaVey in his brilliant essay How to Become A Werewolf, describes how places where a violent crime occurred have a emotional signature that seems to haunt such temples of debauchery.

"In many cases it is known or discovered that such areas have witnessed death of an unexpected or unusual nature or perhaps mayhem, rape, or other violence. All actions involving intense or increased production of adrenaline on the part of either victim or predator (lust, terror, aggression, defense, etc.).

The polarity that such an atmosphere has undergone can be likened to an area where heavy concentrations of electricity have accumulated and discharged repeatedly, thereby recycling the ionization of the atmosphere in a chaotic and disturbing manner."

"That environment, because of continual taxation upon its vitality, acts as a vampire, absorbing energy from those it attracts and, once having attracted, contiguously ensnares for future sustenance. Wilhelm Reich called such areas DOR, indicating a persistent starvation of orgone or enervation of the atmosphere."

This adrenaline charge that chaotically ionizes the atmosphere of the environment is the frenzied emotion of the sorcerer. This could be seen as a electromagnetic charge, the physical manifestation of the magical current. The URth as an organism would transmit such a disturbance like the atmospheric jet stream. The target would then most likely suffer the effects via the electromagnetic vibrations that he was unconsciously picking up [perhaps this is the real invisible hand of Fate], or maybe his luck would just turn sour. That second scenario could be explained by either him picking up bad vibes and thus causing him to be self-conscious, and so totally inept at creating any type of alteration in the world wide web of the URth. Or perhaps its not him so much that is directly altered, but rather his environment, like a invisible negatively charged atom, everything he touches withers and dies. Basically with whatever effect the end result remains the same, when desire suits us and conditions are favorable [i.e. rough weather, & were emotionally charged] the magician can rain on his victims parade.

Something I feel worth mentioning is another discovery I feel is particularly relevant to the subject at hand. I was again reading Earth Memory [all books by Paul Deveroux are highly recommended] on how Hitler used a solar symbol to express exortically his aspirations of conquest. I thought that it would be interesting if I could coum up with a Lunar symbol to represent my own. I read in a little further and saw that 666 was a solar number [I knew this] though to my complete amazement the lunar number was 1080. What was so incredible about this was that when I discovered what I believed to be the English Qabalah, profesised by AL, I had decided to do a little Gemetria with the Holy book. One of the first words I explored was Abrahadabra [the word that is the formula for magick, the logos of the magical current] and its numeration was 1081. This I feel was a synchronicity of the highest order, and to be so close, it couldn't be irrelevant [if anything ever is]. I investigated the value in Sepher Sepheroth and learned that 1081 corresponded to Tiphareth, being the sixth sepheroth attributed to the sun. On the other hand 1080 is the exact radius of the moon in miles.

One possible interpretation for 1081 that I particularly favor is that 1081 is the number of the magical current [perhaps I should say my number]. This is explained as a reinterpretation of the symbolism inherent in the number itself, this becomes evident when represented as 108alt 1. The alt. 1 replaces the last zero in this secret interpretation, for alt. 1 is atom, the orgonic sun of the Beast and his shadowy consort Lilith. So with this initiated understanding of the mechanics of synchronicity, we have a number that depicts the value sacred to the moon, made possible by the union with the atom, the child of the Nu aeon. The moon is the dense mass that causes aberration in the repetitious SYSTEM of the URths ecology, the madness of the moon that intoxicates those that come under its Lyncanthropic spell. And the atom is pure life, in essence consciousness, the Indras web of particle physics. So when these two are combined we have a perversion of the pure seed of generation. This causes the once procreative atom to become radioactive. In psychological terms it is repressed, and when it reappears all hell breaks loose.

Now DOR as the magical current creates an interesting model, especially if you view it as the repressed lust perverted and released unconsciously. This comes very close to the Freudian psychological model favored by the great sorcerer Austin Spare. His desire was expressed in the sentence of desire, which was garbled [in the form of a sigil] like the harsh tongue of glossgallia used in evocation, so it could easily be slipped into some weird angle of the unconscious. This repression if successful would give birth to a radioactive spirit [demon], a degradation of your highest aspirations.

What follows is what I feel is the real missing link in this theory of magical causation. The question I pose to you is could auto-eroticism be the true formula of perverted desire? Perverted in the sense that desire doesn't find union that epitomizes the mystery of fire. Now a sort of union is achieved though, the marriage of you and the other [the alien]. The other is synonymous with the id/shadow, and such perverted coitus is often found in the nether arms of the succubas.

This perversion of the orgone would then be highly efficacious in causing change to occur in conformity. If such hypothesis were true then the aborted orgone that is split come, would be the greatest physical concentration of DOR known to man. The voodooists call this, OJAS, and they too view this perverted star spate as radioactive and highly magical. This further explains why Crowley believed that if you spilt the spate demons would grow, like the poisonous mandrake that blossoms from the seed of the hanged man. This substance when consumed is the sacrament alchemists refer to as the elixir of life, the fountain of youth. On the other hand when this pure golden water is spilt, one obtains the plutonium slime that like the Fenris wolf can swallow the sun. Such is the devastation of the Apocalyptic nuclear winter.

SCIENCE IS TWO LESBIANS FUCKING

I had already in the past associated lesbianism with the element of Air. This can be seen in the stereotypical behavior that is characteristic of this sexuality. They can be somewhat serious and at times have a fundamentalist fervor on matters of Feminism, also they tend to be xenophobic to outies [men]. This adequately describes [albeit in a stereotypical manner] the personality of the dyke but what of the act? Well it occurred to me that lesbianism was perfectly symbolic of division. The split occurs in the woman that corresponds to Nature. Other [circum-stantial?] evidence is the fact that there is no penetration made by sexual organs, rather at times certain artificial equipment is used to conquer such natural short comings; science is very good at doing that. This would also explain why men love watching lesbians have sex, I mean how much more objective can you get when your participation is limited to voyeurism.

Now with Homosexuality there is still a union, but a darker one, that of your partners anal cavity. They normally fuck in the bestial godform of 'doggy style,' such a position causes a phase shift to occur in consciousness. Further yer anus is the very URthy Muldahara charka of Kundalini Yoga. Along with the gay fetish of SM, we begin to see a pattern of a sexuality completely opposite of that of lesbianism. Even though homosexuality is great for works of evocation, it is truly the darkest region of the URth, and so control is minimal [when your being fucked up the ass]. Ultimately queer sexuality is the premier way of drowning in the violent waters of the Abyss, but magick involves skirting the brink and auto-eroticism does just that.

In homosexuality you evoke the beast, but the orgone of the dominant partner is not perverted, for its the man submitting that is transmuted. Autoerotiscm is still the only form of sexuality that perverts the orgone, and creates the heavy atom of the Fusion bomb.

"OJAS - rays we mean of course, those magical energies which the magician generates from his own physical body or for which the physical body serves as the vehicle for the projection. In either case, the body is the weapon for magical aggression and control work and it is also the vast lens through which energies are sent off as rays. This occult power, OJAS, is given to the magician by higher powers."

"This magical power, however, may only be used by very powerful spell-binders. For it shoots out from the body in the form of radiation's and strikes at the energy field of the enemy and thus enters and penetrates the enemy very destructively. It is a terrific power and a terrific source for the rightly motivated magician."

Bertiaux once again proves that Voudon is perhaps the most potent and deadly form of magick ever created. He goes on further to describe a method for the use of the OJAs. If what I have written about intrigues you then You must obtain a copy of his opus The Voudon Gnostic Workbook.
