

Thanks for trying Com. I have worked long and hard to bring this application to you. I guess my main reason for developing Com was quite simple. I saw the price of good communications programs out there and soon realized that most people either can't afford the price or don't want to pay the huge cost. Hence, Com

Com should fill most of your needs. I didn't create a 'Do everything' application. I do know that if you call BBS systems or use a communications program to telnet on the internet that Com will more than fill your needs.

All I ask is the support from you... the user... I want to continue to build on it.

All users registering before April 31 will get a free 32 bit version upgrade when it is complete. (I expect mid March 96. That all depends on Borland International).

Thanks again
