What Duzzit Do?

The FileList macro will insert a listing of files from a specified directory with a particular file extension. For example, you can use FileList to give you a listing of all the bitmap or .BMP files that are in your Windows directory or a listing of all your Word documents (.DOC) in your C:\WINWORD\DOCS directory. Like this:

PYRAMID.BMP
WEAVE.BMP
BOXES.BMP
PAPER.BMP
Total files in D:\WIN3 = 4

Running FileList

When you run the FileList macro, you will first be prompted for a directory path. After typing in a path such as C:\WINWORD, you will be asked for the type of file you would like to find or list. The default is "." which is all files in a directory, but there are also several other options to choose from. If none of the file extension options are what you would like, choose "Custom" so that you can indicate your own file extension. FileList will then look in the specified directory for files that meet your file extension criteria. As FileList finds a file it is added to a new document window that has been opened for listing the files.
