

IIB Metals

In order of increasing atomic number the members of group IIB of the periodic table are:

zinc,
cadmium and mercury.

The elements of this group are characterized by the presence of two electrons in an outer shell. Although mercury also has a valence of 1+, all of the elements in this group have a 2+ valence in common.