

IVB Metals

In order of increasing atomic number the members of group IVB of the periodic table are:

titanium,
zirconium and
hafnium.

The elements of this group are characterized by the presence of two electrons in an outer shell. Although titanium and zirconium also have other valences, all of the elements in this group have a 4+ valence in common.