NEW IN YOUR TOOLBOX

What do you need to write great applications? First, a great development environment—and surely NEXTSTEP gives you that. But you also need excellent information to help you solve technical problems quickly. To help fill that need, we proudly present NXApp.

In this new journal, we plan to present useful information for all NEXTSTEP developers. We're featuring some articles for folks new to NEXTSTEP, and other articles for more advanced programmers. We're providing details on the NEXTSTEP kits, programming tips and tricks, and relevant news. And especially for registered developers and consultants, we're presenting a regular column on third-party development and marketing, ^oShrinkwrap Corner.^o

To make this material very accessible, we've put all of the articles on-line, along with the code used in the articles.

Our goal is to provide something for everyone. So, while not every article in a particular issue may be useful to you, we hope you'll find a few things in each issue that make your development work go more smoothly.

Of course, we can't be entirely sure what you need unless you tell us. Write to us at:
