

Diagram illustrating a block cipher encryption process. The input is a 128-bit block, divided into two 64-bit halves. The first half is XORed with a round function output (R) and then swapped with the second half. The second half is XORed with the round function output (R) and then swapped with the first half. The output is a 128-bit block.