This utility program presents information about all your hard disks, including network and CD-ROM drives. If you have more than just a C: drive, such as multiple logical drives and/or network drives, it sure beats CHKDSK.

For those of you who found CHKDSK won't do networked and SUBSTed drives, and if all you want to know is how much free disk space there is...

Try /V for verbose mode.

Notice that CAPACITY, USED, and FREE are all shown in Kbytes. Percentage FREE is rounded.

Two samples are shown below, the first is standard, the second is the verbose display. The "►" marker to the left of the drive letter and volume label, indicate the current drive. The "►" and "◄" markers left and right of a % free, indicate low disk space.
