When it rains, it pours. Attached is ExplodingAsteroid - I had the original picture of the rock in my MS-DOS directory, and added the explosion tonite. Image has some trouble cutting and pasting between documents (!) so I had to use IconBuilder. Both images were stolen from Xox.app by Sam Streeper. I understand that the images were actually grabbed off of a Nextdimension, but I'm not sure. I'm copying Sam on this cause he could say for sure. The images look great for ones grabbed off a video feed - a lot nicer than the ones I've gotten off my ND. (Regardless, NDs remain the nicest computers ever built, even if they are slow and pretty much unsupported.)
