

"The Hubble Space Telescope, despite its troublesome early life in space, is one of the most sophisticated and productive remote-sensing instruments ever made. This image of the core of Galaxy 4C41.17 was made by Hubble in January 1994. The galaxy is 14 billion light years from earth."