

When Voyager 1 and 2 were heading back from Jupiter they took pictures of Saturn's rings. These pictures showed that the 3 or 4 rings we see around Saturn are actually thousands of concentric ringlets.