

The image displays two lines of text against a background of repeating, faded words like "Background String". The first line reads "This is Line One!" and the second line reads "This is Line Two!". The second line is positioned further to the right than the first, illustrating how text alignment can change across different lines even if the overall visual center appears stable.