

Libraries Online:

Including Library Research Online and other business and marketing research sites

www.argusclearinghouse.com

- a library site that divides searches into categories: arts and humanities, business and employment, communication and others – can't type in key words, can only search within given categories

www.generallibrary.com

www.lii.org

- good for doing broad searches and great results (a library website)

www.monroe.lib.in.us/childrens/ddchow.html How to use the Dewey Decimal System

www.onelook.com

- a great dictionary site that searched definitions, translations, and all dictionaries – it gives you results with many different dictionary options

Scholarly Information

<http://scholar.google.com/>

www.academicinfo.net/

www.Bloomsburymagazine.com/ARC/Arc\_home.asp

www.getCITED.org

www.mylitsearch.org

Business, Market and Web Search Engines

www.itools.com

- great for research – you can search web-sites, can ask other people questions, dictionary translations, web translations, encyclopedia, news papers and magazines, biographies

www.webseek.com

you can either do a typed in search or click on one of their given links and not really good for doing research only good for web-site information
