

Accelerators

We like the Transwarp 25Mhz for the Classic or SE, Daystar products and the Radius Rocket. Note that the Daystar and Mobius 040 accelerators will be in short supply until the end of year.

A FPU - Maths coprocessor will make little difference to Macintosh performance unless you use rendering, spreadsheets, CAD or scientific programs.

The Brainstorm adds a 16Mhz 68000 and faster SCSI bus to the Mac Plus.

Brainstorm Mac Plus.....$344

The Transwarp cards support 16M memory and optional Ethernet and large screen adapters.

|   |         |

| AE Transwarp 40Mhz Classic/SE w/128 & FPU.....  | $1,316 |
| AE Transwarp 40Mhz for LC/LCII/CClassic.....    | $877   |
| AE Transwarp 40Mhz for LC/LCII/CClassic w/FPU.. | $1,269 |

Daystar accelerators require the appropriate adapter. Cards without FPU's can be upgraded at a later date. Cards can be upgraded to a higher speed processor for the difference in RRP pricing. Turbo 040 boards will be available for other Mac systems later this year. Daystar has announced that Power PC cards will be available next year. A bigger power supply is recommended but not necessary when adding an accelerator board to a Mac LC.

SCSI-2 Cards

These cards are best used with large continuous data transfer applications. A very fast drive will offer better general performance than a fast drive with a SCSI-2 card.

|  |         |
|--|---------|
| ATTO SCSI-2 6MB/sec NuBus.....             | $1,575 |
| ATTO SCSI-2 10MB/sec NuBus.....            | $1,950 |
| Data Cannon SCSI-2 Nubus.....              | $672   |
| Daystar SCSI Powercard.....                | $1,034 |
| PLI QuickSCSI NuBus Card.....              | $788   |

Memory Software

Maxima is a 24bit memory extension for the SE/30 and Mac II range, extending memory beyond 8M. Virtual supports better virtual memory management than Apple. Virtual Compact is System 6 and compact Mac compatible.
