

Double your disk space by compressing files for faster data transmission, backup and copying. With a click of the mouse, shrink, combine or split files, to fit twice as much data on your hard or floppy disks. A file, folder, or entire disk can be compressed or expanded just as quickly. You can also do high-speed file copying. Save time sending data over expensive modem and network lines; save on backup and archiving costs; and make expensive disks go twice the distance.
