

Welcome to The BeerStack

What is it?

The BeerStack is a HyperCard stack full of information about beer and brewing. It gives you facts about different beer styles, equipment, yeast strains, hops, malt and adjuncts etc. as well as providing formulas for calculating bitterness and extract contribution. The BeerStack can be used as your sole tool for storing and getting information about your own brewed batches of beer. It lets you keep an inventory of what ingredients you have at home, beer and empty bottles in stock plus a number of other useful features that can all be accessed by a single mouse-click. The BeerStack is shareware and you are kindly asked to send in your registration fee if you use The BeerStack. You will then be sent a disc with the latest updated and fully working version, which has more features and more information.
