This script moves VLC's preferences files to the trash, so the user does not need to search for them. It does not empty your trash, but requires the user to do so afterwards.

This script is published under the same license as the VLC package.