DG STATUS VERSION 1.0

Created September 16, 1991 using Visual Basic.

Loading instruction:

Place dgstat.exe in the "Load=" line of your win.ini file. It would be helpful if it is the last item on the line. This is not required though.

The program will load as an icon on the bottom of your screen.

Just click it open and you will have a moveable status line. The status line will display your mode as in 386 enhanced or standard mode. It will show you the day of the week and date. You will get the time of day and how much memory you left.

Please make sure you have the vbrun.dll in your windows directory.

Future releases will have information on system resources, exit command out of Windows and run or launch commands.

If you have any suggestions please write to:

David Goldfarb
3595 Tilden Avenue
Los Angeles, CA 90034

If you are moved to help out a newly motivated programmer for this shareware Just send any amount that your think this product is worth. This will be a good incentive to improve and expand this product as well other items that strike my imagination.