The Alpha and OmegaWare Setup Program

Contents
Below is a list of reference words for which help is available.   To choose a topic for viewing, click the mouse on your selection or {Tab} down to highlight it and then press {Enter}.

Introduction
Entry Fields
Technical Support

Introduction

This Setup Program is a utility designed to make installation of Alpha and OmegaWare products easier. The program will copy files from a source to a destination drive and directory. It will also create a group and the icons automatically.

To and From fields

a) Use the FROM Entry Box to enter a path where the source files exist.   Example: A:

b) Use the TO Entry Box to enter the path to the destination directory where the files will reside, that is, where you would like to run your program from. (Note: The destination directory must not exist prior to running the Setup program.)   Example: C:\ALPHA

c) Choose the OK button upon receiving the "Complete" message to finalize setup procedure.

Technical Support
Technical support is available through Compuserve via E-Mail, by postal letter, or by telephone.   Click on Alpha and OmegaWare for address information.

Entry Box
This is a place where data may be entered, selected, copied, or pasted.

Ok button

This button means that you agree with the contents of this dialog and want to go on.

Topic
A Help topic usually begins with a title and contains information about a particular task, command, or dialog.

Path

A path consists of a drive letter, colon, backslash, and a directory name, possibly followed by a backslash and sub-directory names to define a specific location. A typical path for an Alpha and OmegaWare product located on your C drive might be C:\ALPHA.

Andy Abercrombie [73530,1365]
24303 Audrey
Warren, MI   48091
(810) 754-0810