

Fir cones are upright in the top of the tree and shatter when mature, leaving a central axis behind.