

Network Monitor Window

If you are seeing errors referring to the news host, mail host, NNTP, SMTP, or authentication, you can monitor the communications between InterNews and any of the hosts using a special window. To open the window, choose Network Monitor from the Windows menu. If a network operation is in progress, type cmd-Y. A window will appear entitled Network Monitor. The communications will be echoed in this window. You can copy from the window or print it as needed. The program is slower when this window is open, so you do not want to have it open all the time.
