AutoLaunch is distributed as Shareware.   You are welcome to download and try AutoLaunch free for 30 days, after which time we ask that you pay the $15.00 registration fee if you continue to use it.

Registered users receive full technical support via email or FAX, and email notices of updates and bug fixes as soon as they're released.   You will also receive a registration code to disable the dialog that reminds you that the shareware evaluation period has expired.

Site licenses are also available.   They include hardcopy documentation, technical support, and free updates.   Site licensed copies also store their settings within the control panel rather than in a preferences file, enabling you to distribute a pre-configured copy much more easily.   Contact St. Clair Software for site licensing details.
