Y A T C

(Yet Another Tetris Clone)

About
Controls
Preferences
Credits

<<< WARNING >>>

This game is still in development
Play at your own risk

About YATC

Your job is to wipe out a pesky virus colony with a set of capsules.

Bart helps you out by kicking a capsule into the bottle which then starts to fall down.

Manipulate the capsule by moving it left or right and turning it.

Line up four or more colored objects and they will dissappear.

Controls

Keys
<left arrow>   move capsule left
<right arrow>   move capsule right
<up arrow>   turn capsule (clockwise ?)
<down arrow>   drop capsule

l   next level

+   speed up
-   slow down

<esc>   hides the game (turning it into a nice, unobtrusive, generic icon that no one will ever notice)

There are other keys that do things, but I forget what they are.

Preferences

Wouldn't it be nice if there were preferences to set ?

Difficulty:
  Beginner
  Intermediate Expert

CheckBoxes
  Sound   turn annoying noises on/off

Edit Boxes
  Level   starting level

Credits

Windows 3.0 Version: _Robert Donner_

Visual Consultant: _Larry Houch_

Marketing and Bitching: _David Shulman_

Distribution by: _DUFF Software_

Testing by: _?????_

YATC is in no way related to any Russian Game or something called _Dr.Mario_

RobD: The Guy who did all the work

"I'm working on it!"

DavidSh: Where is my name ?

"I'm going to get credit. Right?"

LarryH: Insert clever remark here
"Do I know you people?"

Testers: Insert your name here.

DUFF software is another group of weird programmers just having fun.

It is not associated in any way with Bogus software.

The name was reportedly chosen to honor a famous brand of beer, but there are rumors it also stands for Developers United to Fight Fish.

Dr.Mario will soon be available on the Nintendo Entertainment System.for the incredibly low price of only $34.95