Introduction

Thank you for choosing to evaluate TextCon 95 (v3.0)

TextCon 95 is a 32 Bit Plug-In, bulk text conversion module to work with CisSearch 95.

It converts your selected Compuserve Filing Cabinet Files to ASCII text files.

By selecting single or multiple messages (Threads, Articles, ENS, Messages & E-Mail) within CisSearch 95, you can export and split the files into different file headings, naming and grouping the files according to subject, Author, Recipient or Message Id.

There is an optional checkbox (Retain Original Format) that will allow you to override the formatting used within the CIS message area, useful for UUDECODING attached files from the internet.

REQUIRES CisSearch 95 (Version 3.01 or greater).

Installation

TXTCON95.ZIP

This file contains the following files:

- * README.WRI - This file
- * TXTCON95.DLL - This is the module that does the text conversions for you.
- * TEXTCON.CON - Installation Instructions for Auto Install from CisSearch 95.

1. Unzip TXTCON95.ZIP into a temporary directory
2. Start up CisSearch 95.
3. Select (Preferences | Install Converter) from the menu.
4. Navigate to the temporary directory where you unzipped the textcon files and select the Textcon.con file.
5. CisSearch 95 will automatically Move TextCon into your CisSearch 95 directory and update your Initialisation file to use TextCon.

Un-Install

Remove the above named files from where ever you located them, and delete the [Converters] section in your CISSRCH.INI file (Located in your ..\Windows directory). Also remove the Textcon.ini file from your ..\windows directory.

Operating Instructions

1. After you have performed a search with CisSearch 95 you will see a list of message results that have matched your search. You can export any of these Compuserve messages as an ASCII text file. Select the files that you wish to export with the mouse (Hold the SHIFT - LEFT MOUSE or CNTRL-Left Mouse for multiple selections) and press the [CONVERT] button.

Note: The Shareware version will only convert a single message at a time.

2. The Conversion manager will then scan your CISSRCH.INI file for the available convertors you have on your system.

3. Select a converter (Bulk Ascii Text Converter, in this case) and press OK.

4. The Text Converter dialog box will then appear:

 Output Directory

Select a directory where you wish the converted files to be exported to.

 Output File Naming

Select the method you wish for the files to be named.

For example, if you choose 'Use Author' then each exported file will be named after the author. ie. Each exported message Authored by Joe Bloggs, will be placed in the file "Joe Bloggs.Txt"

Note: TextCon 95 is a 32 Bit application and will generate Long File names. It will automatically exclude illegal characters.

 Max Page Width

Because of the variety of formatting used in Compuserve messages some files convert just fine without any adjustments, others require modification and if you find that some of your messages appear to be going off the page then set the maximum page width here and when the file is converted it may be more readable.

 Ignore Max. Page Width

This will override the above setting and retain the message formatting.

 Retain Original Format

Will allow you to override the formatting used within the CIS message area, useful for UUDECODING attached files from the internet.
