

NITRO THE LIVING BOMB - Nitro was found by the gathering group of teenagers, huddled and shivering like a wet puppy in the corner of an abandoned crashed space ship on the planet surface of Charr (with Karn)

-just remember that cousin you had who was allergic to EVERYTHING when you were growing up.....that's Nitro; this frail being cannot hear any loud noises, see any excessively bright lights, or be touched too hard

-if any of the above should occur, then.....BOOM!!

-All that is in a 100-300 yard radius is blinded with an explosive flash, then a split second later, everyone and everything in sight has been destroyed. A yellow and red underwear-clad Nitro is in the middle of the room/area, gasping and wheezing for air, as if he's just sprinted up Mt. Fujii

-he then collapses from exhaustion for approximately 15 minutes, in which time the Nines must reassemble Nitro's suit

-the only way to observe this phenomenon is to video tape it and watch it in super slow-mo; this reveals a super-strong Nitro zipping around the room, manually knocking everyone out!

-Nitro's suit is composed of padding from crash-landed space ship seats, padded and cabled prosthetic hands, a domed indestructible glass helmet, a huge red beacon mounted on his back, extended padded feet attached to springs and shock absorbers, and a high-tech radius, decibel and proximity-measuring monitor hanging around his neck

-all of Nitro's costume greatly resembles how we used to look as a 4 year old after Mom dressed you to go out in the snow....even with cables attached to the fake hands, looking like mitten strings

-low-tech suit, high tech monitor

- Nitro has unclipped toe and finger nails because he simply can't stand the pain
- no one really knows Nitro's past yet, because no one can whisper quietly enough to have a conversation with him!