

Introduction

The Grammar and Spelling Plug-in Modules included on this disk are for use with Microsoft® Word for the Macintosh® version 5.0. They fix problems that were discovered with the Word version 5.0 Grammar and Spelling commands. In addition, the Spelling module includes several improvements.

Installing the Grammar and Spelling Plug-In Modules

1. If you are working in Word, save your documents, and then quit Word.
2. Drag the new Grammar and Spelling files into the Word Commands folder on your hard disk. The Word Commands folder is usually stored in the same folder as Word.
3. If you are prompted to replace existing files, choose the OK button.
4. Restart Word.

Grammar and Spelling Improvements

The new grammar module fixes problems that sometimes caused Word to quit unexpectedly when running on the Macintosh Plus, SE, Classic, Portable, and PowerBook™ 100 models.

Changes were made to the Spelling command in three areas.

- To provide more feedback on the progress of a spelling check

When you choose the Spelling command, the message “Loading Spelling Dictionaries” immediately appears on the screen to signal that Word has begun to check spelling.

You can cancel a spelling check at any time by pressing COMMAND + PERIOD (.) or ESC.

In large documents, when Word is searching for the next misspelled Word, the percentage of the spelling check that has been completed is indicated in the lower-left corner of the document window.

- To speed up the editing of large custom dictionaries

Editing a custom dictionary is much faster, and there is much less of a delay when you close the Spelling dialog box after you have added words to a custom dictionary.

- To improve the way “ignored” words are handled

The Ignore All button now causes Word to ignore words for the entire Word session. That is, when you choose the Ignore All button, all instances of the selected word are ignored during the current spelling check and any other spelling checks you conduct until you quit Word.

A new button, Reset “Ignore All” List, has been added to the Spelling Preferences panel. When you choose this button, the Spelling command no longer ignores the words you have chosen with the Ignore All button in the Spelling dialog box.
