SUNNYVALE, California — August 2, 1991 — Advanced Software today announced the shipment of QuickTools, a $79.95 collection of eight System 7.0 Macintosh utilities that seamlessly integrates into your system. Here is a brief description of each QuickTool:

- Power Strip is a unique, NeXT-like launcher for applications, documents and Desk Accessories
- Snipper is a 24 bit color screen capture program
- Sunset is a Screen Saver with a set of over 30 saver modules, many with sound
- Work Saver automatically issues a "Save..." command to avoid losing unsaved work
- Instant Menus brings the menus to your cursor and allows switching among programs/windows
- Barricade is a simple screen locking security program requiring a password for access
- Dialog Power! assigns unique command key equivalents to each option in a dialog box

President of Advanced Software. “Our goal was to pack QuickTools with both variety and value at an affordable price”.

Here is a more detailed description of each QuickTool:

Power Strip lets you launch documents, DAs and applications without navigating through layers of folders in the Finder. Assign a “button” to represent each application or DA on a strip that starts on the left side of your Mac. You can, for example, attach a list of documents to Microsoft Word and open any of them, or even assign one document you want Word to open on each launch. You can also move Power Strip to a second monitor. Power Strip is always available on your screen, but can pop in and out of view with a hot key.

Sunset is an entertaining “screen saver” that prevents “burn-in” damage on your screen. It has dozens of fun effects (many with sound) from which to choose. Customize them, or, if you are a programmer, build your own.

Functionality activates the Undo, Cut, Copy and Paste Function keys (F1 through F4) on your extended keyboard. Now all applications and Desk Accessories can take advantage of these keys under System 6.

Dialog Power! allows you to respond to any option in a dialog box with your keyboard instead of your mouse by underlining a unique letter for each option. For example, you can quickly choose selections by pressing the command key and, “S” for “Save” or “O” for “Open.”

Instant Menus brings the menu bar to your cursor. You will never again have to move your mouse a long distance to access the menu bar. You can also switch among applications and choose which window to bring to the front. A lifesaver for folks with cluttered desktops, or with a large or second monitor.

Snipper gives you the power to capture or print any portion of your screen at any time, even in color. Snipper will let you capture Windows and Menus; there is no need to retouch them in your paint program. Images can be printed, saved to a file, the Clipboard or Scrapbook.

Barricade is a simple computer security utility that protects your Macintosh from children and nosy neighbors. A hot key locks your Mac and leaves a customizable warning message on your screen until you enter your secret password.

Work Saver automatically saves your current document at specified intervals. No need to worry about losing hours of work from power outages or crashes. You can even delay saving until your Macintosh is idle.

QuickTools is available now for $79.95 from Advanced Software. To obtain more information, call Advanced Software toll-free at 800-346-5392 or 408-733-0745.
