

I'm addicted to luv... and this is how it all began.

I had heard about Mac from other women just ranting and raving about how great his abilities were... how much pleasure he gave them... and how easy he was to control.

I just couldn't believe Mac was "that great" but after a long period of frustration, disappointment and down right anger with others; when it was time to make a commitment-- make a real commitment for the rest of my life, I found Mac.

I tried him out. He was smooth, he was easy, he was a joy-a pleasure and I became hooked almost immediately.

Well, I made a commitment to Mac and he moved in just seven months ago. Since that time we have spent many a night together. He has never given me anything but pleasure. Night after night, frequently all night. A quick nap and then back with Mac the next day and far into the night again.

He has given me new life, new interests, new thrills and lots of fun. I would rather spend my nights with Mac than doing anything else I can think of.

I understand he has a brother that is more attractive, faster and more exciting. I am done with good looks and fast action. I must have Mac's dependability. It is a great feeling knowing Mac is always there and always ready.

Yes, I've made a commitment to Mac and unless I just wear him out completely, I will continue to take full advantage of his wonderful nature, abilities and excitement for years to come. I am a satisfied woman, and no other will take his place, I love Mac Intosh, Se.
