

About the last frame:

When you step to the end of a movie, the last frame appears to play twice. You see it when you step past the next-to-last frame, and again when you step past the last frame itself.

The last frame remains visible because there is no “next” frame to display.