

How To Register CyberAssistant

CyberAssistant is Shareware. If after using the product for several days, you decide you like it, please honor the Shareware agreement by registering the product for only $10. Your registration fee will serve two purposes. First it will help make low cost quality software possible through your financial support. Second, it will remove those annoying void reminders, telling you that your product is not registered.

CyberAssistant is shipped with an application called "Register" to make the registration process easy. You can find it in the same directory as CyberAssitant. If your copy of CyberAssitant did not ship with this application, you may obtain the complete package at our web site: <http://www.creality.com/> or at many ftp sites (such as the info-mac archives).

We process all our orders through a service named "Kagi". They can handle a variety of payment methods and order processing for your convenience. Simply launch the "Register" application and fill out the on-screen order form. You are given the option to pay by cash, credit card or other currency. Depending on the payment method, options for email ordering may be possible.

The "Register" application should make registering your product easy. If you have questions about the registration process, please contact Kagi at sales@kagi.com. If your questions are about the product or registration codes, please contact Crystal Reality Software at support@creality.com. Please send registrations only to Kagi and do not copy Crystal Reality Software. We will be notified in a timely manner as Kagi processes orders.

Once you have obtained a registration code, simply open the CyberAssistant control panel and click on the Registration button to enter it. You must enter the code exactly as provided you, entering the exact name and code provided. All entries are case-dependent.
